2. This report will be brief since the Chairman stated that the Secretary's report of the meeting would contain the summary of the discussions.

3. Reporting to the Director of the proposed National Security Intelligence Agency will be an organizational unit to be known as the Secretariat under the control of an Executive Secretary. The Chairman asked that the functions of the Secretariat be outlined by Commander Knell, working in collaboration with me.

4. I suggested that in our task to develop a basic organizational pattern, it should be sufficient to outline the main staff and operating functions in generic terminology. Accordingly, after much profitable discussion and with comparatively few philosophical diversions from the Navy representative, the broad outline of two parts of the proposed organization was tentatively agreed upon, viz.:

a. The Assistant Director for Management

1. Budget and Procedural Planning
2. Personnel
3. Administrative Services
4. Statistical Control

OSD & DOS review(s) completed.
